

Calling all teachers!

The Wild Escape is an epic-scale online collective artwork featuring thousands of animals imagined by children, making stronger connections between schools and museums.

Children across the UK have been creating works of art to celebrate their favourite creatures and show their hope for our future environment. Now you and your students can join in too!

You can use The Wild Escape flexibly to support science, art, technology and climate change topics - on a visit to a museum, in the classroom, in the playground, and to share with your community of parents and carers.
